

AgiOS Appoints Jeffrey Capello to Board of Directors

April 19, 2023

– Board Member Paul Clancy Will Step Down at the End of His Term –

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 19, 2023 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Agios Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (Nasdaq: AGIO), a leader in the field of cellular metabolism pioneering therapies for rare diseases, today announced that Jeffrey Capello has been appointed to its board of directors. Agios also announced that Paul Clancy will step down from the board of directors at the end of his term, effective June 13, 2023.

"AgiOS is dedicated to cultivating a diverse board that is focused on the company's long-term value creation for patients and shareholders. As such, we are thrilled to welcome Jeff, whose nearly 30-year track record of driving profitable growth for life sciences companies, as well as his strong international perspective, will be highly valuable as we continue to execute on our mission of developing transformative medicines for people with rare diseases all over the world," said Brian Goff, chief executive officer of Agios. "We would also like to express our gratitude to Paul for his 10 years of dedicated service to our board. He has been a tremendous contributor to our success and a trusted advisor to the management team and other board members. We wish him all the best in his current and future endeavors."

Mr. Capello brings to Agios deep operational and financial expertise in the healthcare and life science sectors. Most recently, he was the chief financial officer for Biogen, where he partnered with the executive team to achieve consistent and predictable financial outcomes while enhancing the R&D pipeline and implementing a disciplined capital allocation process. Earlier in his career, Mr. Capello served as a chief financial officer of several leading healthcare companies, including Boston Scientific, PerkinElmer, Ortho Clinical Diagnostics and Beacon Health Options. He has served as a member of the board of directors and chair of the audit committee of several early-stage, publicly held life sciences companies, including Sirtris, OvaScience and Flex Pharma. He has an MBA from the Harvard Business School and a B.S. in business administration from the University of Vermont. He was a certified public accountant and former collegiate and professional ice hockey player.

Mr. Capello commented, "AgiOS has done an extraordinary job of building on its heritage in hematology and cellular metabolism to advance a robust pipeline focused on rare diseases. I am thrilled to join the board at such a pivotal time for the company, and I look forward to partnering with the rest of the board and the leadership team to help drive value creation for the company to ensure its continued near- and long-term success."

About Agios

AgiOS is a biopharmaceutical company that is fueled by connections. The Agios team cultivates strong bonds with patient communities, healthcare professionals, partners and colleagues to discover, develop and deliver therapies for rare diseases. In the U.S., Agios markets a first-in-class pyruvate kinase (PK) activator for adults with PK deficiency, the first disease-modifying therapy for this rare, lifelong, debilitating hemolytic anemia. Building on the company's leadership in the field of cellular metabolism, Agios is advancing a robust clinical pipeline of investigational medicines with programs in alpha- and beta-thalassemia, sickle cell disease, pediatric PK deficiency and MDS-associated anemia. In addition to its clinical pipeline, Agios has a PAH stabilizer in preclinical development as a potential treatment for phenylketonuria (PKU) and deep scientific expertise in classical hematology.
